Loan figures demonstrate local growth

STAND's logo declares 'more than just a library' and this is a claim we are proud of.

But we do remain a library, and takes our responsibilities seriously, especially when it comes to the books we put on our shelves and lend to users. We launched The Stannington

Collection in May 2015 with a few dozen titles: now the total is more than 6,000.

Some are donated by supporters, but most have been bought with funds we raise and spend, with professional advice, on titles we know our users will enjoy.

Police pop up in library

Officers from South Yorkshire Police visited us in October to meet local people and discuss issues raised. They brought their 'pop-up police station' and stayed with us all morning. Library users and volunteers alike had plenty to ask. "I think this event was successful," said volunteer Bob Mynors. "It gave us one more way to show that we are managing our local library for the benefit of local people."

Breaking things and making things

At Halloween, the library helped show young users just how great reclaimed electrical components look on pumpkin lanterns, and how mums, dads and kids can make good stand-ins for a haunted house.

Our local business supporters

In just over two years, Yousif and Balsam Al-Bazz at Stanwood Post Office/WHs Local have collected nearly £100 for Stannington Library. "We are really happy that Yousif and Balsam keep a collecting boxes in their shop," said volunteer Bob Mynors. "They are one amongst several local businesses working to help us carry on the work we are committed to."
