New books now in stock

STAND is happy to announce new titles for users to borrow – titles that will be available only to Stannington Library users

Cash grants from Bradfield Parish Council and Sheffield City Council's Ward Pot Small Grants Scheme, as well as funds raised from local business and local people have made a special purchase possible, and many kind local donations of pristine quality books are also included in the new stock.

"This is a exciting development," said STAND's volunteer library manager Dot Russell (inset), "It shows how committed volunteers have can deliver the library service local people want and expect. Without underestimating the scale of the task still ahead of us, we can take great pride in this achievement."

A glimpse into the future?

Architects' drawings recently on show in the library outlined three possible ways in which the building could be re-arranged or redeveloped for the future. The idea remains no more than an aspiration for the time being, but the drawings are still available for inspection in the library, or you can contact us to ask for a copy to be sent to you by email.

STAND wishes to thank Rachel Haynes of THREAD Architects for her valuable input on this project

Did you fill in a survey form?

In February and March, users of Stannington Library were asked to take part in a survey about their library experience. Please accept our thanks if you're one of the many who did.

The data collected will be used only to benefit the library and library users. Along with borrowing and membership figures, they help demonstrate to Sheffield City Council how well we perform.

We will use these statistics to inform and support applications for funding – something that is fast becoming a regular feature of the life of STAND.

And above all, it is a way to check that we are fulfilling our key objective – delivering the library service that the people of Stannington want.

We plan more surveys for June and October. Please take part if you can.

Full results available in the library and on our website

BOOK DONATIONS

Now we have begun lending out some of the many books kindly donated to us, we would ask anyone who wants to contribute more in this way to study our Book Donations Policy.

It is available in the library and on our website.

Also please make an appointment before delivering your donations to the library so our volunteers are not overwhelmed by deliveries.

Thank you

Friday the 13th?

Friday 13th March turned into a fun day this year in Stannington Library as volunteers dressed up in t-shirts and put on their Deeley-Boppers to join in the Red Nose Day excitement.

Other events in other places may have raised more money than our £24.06, and we salute their efforts. But we had just as big a laugh as anyone else did.

Half-term handicrafts

Stannington children aged 7 and over converged on the library on Tuesday 17th February for a handicrafts session made possible by The Children's University and delivered by Sheffield's Ignite Imaginations, formerly Art in the Park. Starting with photographs of various well-known local buildings, they used paper, paint and pens to fashion puppet theatres with which they acted out stories they made up together on the day.
